There's something that has been very puzzling for some time.

In the Rodeo News Facts, one finds an advertisement for a billiard parlor.

It begins, "Headquarters for hardboiled eggs" and offers the delicacy, two for a nickel.

That ad may be taken any one of several ways.

It is possible that Rodeo is a particularly good market for six-minute hen fruit.

Perhaps the natives have an intense craving for them, though if they have, this is the first we've heard of it.

And then again the ad may be an invitation for the "big shots" to gather there.

Just heard an interesting story from a Martinez newspaperman.

He said that a navy friend of his told him the ins and outs of the liquor situation which used to exist on board ship and why the navy doesn't use iodine in its first aid kits anymore.

It seems that the boys, hard-pressed for stimulants, would strain iodine through bread and drink the alcohol.

If you ever studied chemistry and made laboratory tests, you know that iodine and the starch in bread co-operate to make an outrageous hue of purple.

Of course the strained liquid still retains some of the iodine color and taste but the sailors wouldn't let a thing like that stop them.

It's reminiscent of the ho-hoes who drink canned heat strained through Mellon's food.

And that is when they see "pink elephants on the floor."

Iodine would probably produce purple African wild life.

No Change Seen Here In Prices Of Bread

With the nation rapidly becoming aroused over the bread situation, rumors of profiteering and impending rise of prices, Richmond bakers last night asserted there would be no price change here for at least another week.

There has been no boost in the local bread price, it was stated, and none is contemplated for the present. Next Wednesday, it was said, something definite will be done regarding the price of bread here in Richmond and elsewhere, it was stated.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—UP—The emergency bread program moved to end bread profiteering. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced that complaints of this practice had been turned over to the Justice department for investigation and possible prosecution. Wallace's action was spurred by reports of bread price increases in widely separated cities, including Des Moines, Ia., and New Orleans, La.

At the same time, Farm Relief Administrator George N. Peek announced the firm intention of his organization to protect the consumer from profiteering.

"Definite guarantees for the consumer were written in the adjustment act itself," Peek said. "Those guarantees should be fulfilled."

He warned there was no justification for some of the bread price increases that already have been reported, joining with Wallace in the assertion that the anti-trust laws will "remain in full effect" and that concerted action to boost prices to consumers (Continued on Page 3)

WALTER JOHNSON IS ELECTED MAYOR

ROOSEVELT LAYS PLANS TO ASSIST INDUSTRIES

WASHINGTON, July 5.—UP—

Exercise by President Roosevelt of his broad powers to lay embargo and restrict imports in order to protect American industry and labor under the industrial recovery program was forecast here tonight.

General Hush S. Johnson's industrial planning scheme, which will raise American wages, shorten hours and thus increase the cost of production, can be preserved only if the doors are closed to the products of cheap foreign labor, it was pointed out.

Emphasis was laid on this phase of the Roosevelt program as the chief executive returned to his desk and initiated a series of conferences with officials in charge designed to speed up and unify the industrial planning and public works project.

The possibility of American embargoes and trade restrictions further complicates the London economic conference.

With currency stabilization definitely ruled out of the program there, a likely subject on the agenda for consideration would be tariffs.

But this country now is hardly in a position, because of the necessities of its domestic program to talk about whitening away trade walls.

Rodeo in particular, Contra Costa county yesterday when news was broadcast that the Union Oil company planned nearly a million dollars in improvements at its Oleum plant.

The oil company announced it was ready to construct an $800,000 industrial oil plant as an addition to its refinery at Oleum.

Private contracts have been awarded by the company and it will now employ workmen on the addition.

Hesse said, however, that the company is insisting insofar as it is possible that Contra Costa men be employed and that Contra Costa materials be used by the builders.

Several months will be required to complete the new unit.

Carlson Chides Hoey Over Accusing Seven Filipinos Of Murder

MARTINEZ, July 5.—UP—Seven Filipinos charged with burying alive the allegedly infatuated bride of a member of their cult will seek to prove that others killed the woman, it was indicated as a jury was sought in the murder trial here today.

Thomas M. Carlson, of Richmond, defense attorney, declared during questioning of a witness that "if the district attorney and the grand jury were awake, other persons would be charged with this crime. These defendants are innocent."

Mixes Testimony—The statement was in contrast with testimony police officers will give. The latter quoted Leon Kantiello, 40, foreman of a labor camp and reputed leader of the cult, as saying after his arrest: "She was an unfaithful wife. It was justice, our justice."

The body of Mrs. Cecilia Navarro, 29, an expectant mother, was taken from a shallow grave on Jersey island in the San Joaquin river in April after Pablo Bustamante, disgruntled member of the cult, led officers to the spot.

Carlson indicated by his questioning that the defense would attack Bustamante's testimony as being untruthful.

Beaten And Gagged—Bustamante claimed he had been beaten and left bound and gagged in a room after a fight with Kantiello, chief of the Kantiello cult. He went to police when he escaped.

Officers found the body and arrested Kantiello, his wife, Mrs. Alberta Asis of Vallejo, head of the women's branch of the Filipino order, Mrs. Maria Galvez, Eustace Codog, Vincente Ilano, and Ramon Costello.

Dug the Grave—Codog, Ilano and Costello, the state will charge, dug the grave into which the screaming woman was thrown, after she had been sentenced to death at weird rites and flogged.

James F. Hoey, district attorney, indicated that he would ask the death penalty for all seven defendants.

Stops Argument—Judge Thomas D. Johnston precipitated an argument with the defense counsel when he asked a prospective juror if he would be opposed to the death penalty for an expectant mother.

He later said that the defense could have a trial for each accused person if they liked.

Bids for Field House Will Be Opened July 11

On July 17 bids will be received by the city council for the erection of a "field house" at NE 10th avenue.

The request of Architect James T. Naeff that the plans for the work be turned over to him at an estimated cost of $150 was refused by the council at its meeting last evening, after it was stated that the plans had been drawn by the city building inspector, without cost to the city.

The work will cost at approximately $5000 and the money for the improvement was given the city by Mary Nichols Knepper, a daughter of the late John Nichols.

Two units will be constructed at the present time, one will contain a rest room, locker rooms and showers for the men, and the other will provide a rest room for the women. Later the center unit will be built, and this will contain an assembly room.

Richmond Man Sees Drowning Of Youth

The tragic drowning of a 15-year-old youth was told yesterday by Edwin M. Summers, Richmond veteran and relative by marriage of the stricken boy.

Howard Stricker was drowned at Taylor Slough, Bethel Island, on the Fourth of July.

He was one of a party of Richmond, Oakland, San Leandro and Berkeley people who were spending the holiday picnicking and swimming.

They included: Summers, his wife, Margaret, his son, Edwin, Jr., 12 and his mother, Obedia, all of this city.

Others were: Mr. and Mrs. George Stricker and son, Howard, and San Lorenzo, Mr. and Mrs. John Stricker, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Summers, and the R. V. Morris family, uncle and aunt of the dead boy.

Some two hours after the party had finished lunch, Summers said, the two boys, Howard and Edwin, Jr., asked permission to go in swimming.

Young Stricker was apparently stricken with a cramp in the water after diving from a large log 100 feet offshore.

Miss Geraldine Farrar, 12, niece of the proprietor of the resort, attempted to save him but was forced to relinquish his grip on the boy as he pulled her under.

Members of the Piedmont fire department were called but were unable to resuscitate him after he had been under water for an hour. The body had been recovered with grappling hooks.

Deputy Sheriff Joe Gomez had the body removed to Greenwood for funeral arrangements.

Meyer Talks—"During the past two years," said Meyer, "the council has faced many problems, and I believe a record has been made of which no one need be ashamed. The assessment rolls have been cut, taxes have become delinquent and operating expenses have been reduced."

"The members have faced very trying matters, and they have done the very best they could. I believe better times are near and will work their way across the continent to this coast in the near future."

Many Problems—"I hope this will be the last time the board of equalization will have to face what they did at the meeting this morning—a decrease in the city assessment roll of $140,000 and with the people of the city expecting a decrease in taxes."

Tough problems are facing the board, but I sincerely hope that (Continued on page 8)

TRIO OF NEW COUNCILMEN ARE SEATED AT MEETING

Walter J. Johnson is the new mayor of the City of Richmond.

He was elected by the vote of all members of the council at the meeting last evening, with the exception of Councilman S. S. Ripley, who voted "No," and Councilman George F. Imbach, who asked that he be excused from voting.

Only Candidate—Although it was understood that Imbach was also a candidate for mayor, Johnson's name was the only one placed before the council.

Retiring Mayor Russell Meyer, who has served as the head of the city for the past two years in surrendering his office to the new official, and taking the seat as a member of the council, said that it had been a pleasure to serve the council as its chairman.

Meyer Talks—"During the past two years," said Meyer, "the council has faced many problems, and I believe a record has been made of which no one need be ashamed. The assessment rolls have been cut, taxes have become delinquent and operating expenses have been reduced."

Speaking Of Sports

MONTREAL, July 5. (U.P.)—Plans for holding the "longest" bicycle race in the world—a trans-continental race through Canada and the United States for the world's championship—are nearing completion here for August.

Riders will cover over 4,000 miles in 33 days, making the race longer by over 300 miles than the French Wheel Classic "Tour de France." The Trans-Continental, which has received the sanction of both the National Cycling Association of the United States and the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, will start at Quebec on August 1, and will go through Toronto, Hamilton, Sault Ste. Marie, Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Madison, Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Buffalo, Ottawa, and finish at the Montreal Baseball stadium on September 2.

The race will be run in 22 laps of which 23, including a 150-mile lap to be ridden on Soldiers Field in Chicago, in connection with the Century of Progress Exhibition, have already been laid out.

The race is attracting an international field. To date 22 riders, including some of the best in Europe and Canada, have signed their intention of starting.

A meeting was held last evening.

Sets Record

From dawn to darkness, Jim Ford, left, Portland, Ore., golfer, raced around the peninsula golf course to set a world record for the most number of holes played in one day. The City Recreation team, baseball champions of this city, are well fortified on the mound. They have acquired the services of Frankie Peacock and Don Wilson. The acquisition of Peacock came at an opportune moment as he just did not get under the line in time to defeat the Richmond Produce team on the Fourth of July.

the Richmond Odd Fellows, is improving rapidly. His receiving behind the plate is splendid and has been turning in a lot of hits with plenty of drive in some of them.

Charlie Martini, Howard Salmon and Billy Carr have caused a lot of trouble for the Richmond Produce team on the Fourth of July.

Berly Horne was used on the hilltop Sunday by the Recreationists as Don Wilson who was slated to twirl the contest failed to put in an appearance and the substitution of Horne was made despite the fact that Berly was suffering from an injured knee inflicted by the Lambsch team several weeks ago.

The Richmond Produce team are running neck and neck for the lead in the Contra Costa County league with Belden. As these two lines tangle at the first start Sunday, a win for the Produce will just about mean the championship.

Sunday the newly crowned champion City Recreation team will take on the Diggsbach Wood and Coal aggregation in the seventh round of Double A competition and this affair will take place in Richmond at Seawright field at 2:30 p. m.

"Pop" Le Gault's 11th Market could have been doubly entrenched in first place in the Single A division if they would have won the contest with the O. K. Batteries of Oakland last Sunday. As matters now stand, the Markets are but one game behind first position and if Le Gault starts his ace pitcher, Kay Kendall, on the mound Sunday it is a good wager that the Markets will turn in another victory.

BARBER JACK'S
SON GUARDED

CHICAGO, July 5.—Efforts were made today to prevent the John Factor abduction from becoming a double-killings play.

It was learned that whenever John Factor, the 35-year-old son of the assassin of national legislator, leaves his hotel headquarters for the home of his mother, Mrs. Leonard M. Factor, first wife, he is guarded by two bodyguards.

Due to the association in some cases of the kidnappers of his mother have roamed the former Chicago barber, an unsatisfactory job was done and might attempt to extort a ransom for him.

Meanwhile, the strain of watching waiting began to tell on Factor's mother. She was ordered to remain in bed by her physician.

Factor said he had received only one call from anyone representing the kidnappers—a telephone message asking $75,000, and he added, he was not certain that it was not a hoax.

The boy himself was a victim of kidnapping last spring, but he told newspaper men he did not believe the same men were responsible for his father's abduction.

The elder Factor was abducted last Saturday after leaving an out-of-town roadhouse.

of controversy among fans as to their fitness of being held in the matter the faster while others lean toward Salmon. This fellow Carr is just about the fastest thing in a ball suit on local sandlots in this writer's opinion.

The City Recreation club have released Watkins, catcher.

The Fruitvale Macraebes, composed of all Richmond players, will in a short while be known as the Richmond Macraebes and play most of their games at home.

Your Good HEALTH

By CLAUD N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

Industry Is Interested In the Health of Its Employees

I HAVE vivid memories still remaining of a time when the largest industry of my home city was closed down for an indefinite period because of an unheard-of reason. The head of the concern had some advanced ideas on employment and was particularly interested in the personal welfare of his employees. With this in mind, he was the first of his class to install rest rooms and facilities for cleanliness. He was hailed as a benefactor and philanthropist until suddenly it was discovered that the women who were laundering the towels did not belong to a labor union. Injunctions followed and during the controversy the factory was closed.

WHEN operations were resumed, this same "captain of industry" saw the need in educating for cleanliness as a direct contribution to the general health. It is an old story now and the benefits that have grown out of it will never be told. It was a new connecting link between capital and labor. Money was finally taking an interest in the man. It was the organizations in industry which, of themselves, seized an opportunity which meant increased self-respect and greater physical comfort. Inevitably, greater efficiency would be the result.

EVERYWHERE, now, industry has its health and safety commissions, its company physicians and nurses, its shower baths, wash basins, and clean towels, and its equipment for emergency care. Literally tons of literature are now distributed for the asking and its distribution is urged by means of bulletin boards and doggers in the pay envelopes. Suggestions for diet, home comforts, vacation plans may all be had, and frequently special classes are arranged for presenting their advantages.

ALL of these things have increased the employed person's sense of responsibility to the source of his living income and in numerous instances have elevated the living standards of entire neighborhoods. Besides all this, definite progress has been made in the control of the so-called occupational diseases. The effect upon the workers in many factories of the various kinds of dust, powdered metal, gas and fumes given off in the various processes varies with the susceptibility of the worker himself.

SERIOUS damage can be done to the mucous membranes where the air breathed is full of dust particles. Much progress has been made in the use of devices for filtering the air for flying particles of metal and dust. In the various metal transformations, the use of chemicals produces gases which are quite poisonous. It is not a really fatal, but the modern factory now used very generally for an insecticide is responsible for serious industrial diseases. The improvement has been made by way of installing safety devices in the machinery in factories and the rate of accidents has been reduced.

THE entire system of "Workmen's Compensation" was conceived as a scheme for compensating assistance in cases of accidents incurred while under employment. Industrial companies employing a stated number of persons must carry this insurance or be required to meet the expense themselves in the event an employee is injured.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "I am an orphan. I should like to know my engagement at a dinner, but do not know how to go about it. What do you suggest?"

ANSWER: In the absence of parents, an older relative or friend should be asked to sponsor the engagement dinner and make the announcement of the betrothal. You may pay for the expense of the dinner and the announcement. If you wish, however, you may dispense with the engraved announcement cards. Your friends may be asked to dinner over the telephone, and the announcement sprung on them during dinner as a surprise by the person sponsoring the affair.

WRINKLED LIDS MAY BE CAUSED BY EYESTRAIN

By JACQUELINE HUNT

THERE are nice little crinkly lines around the eyes of some women that suggest pleasant things. One look at such a woman and you know that she possesses a rare understanding and a valiant spirit—one that has learned to meet every challenge of life with her head up. Such lines are neither aging or unattractive, but they seem a very tangible part of the woman's personality.

There are other little lines, however, that come from different causes like bitterness, frowning and squinting in the hot sun. These lines are unnecessary and they are aging to the appearance no matter how youthful their owner may be.

The best treatment for this type is prevention, but if they have already slipped up on you, do everything you can to soften and erase them. You can at least prevent them from growing deeper and prevent others from appearing. Begin by giving the delicate skin around your eyes plenty of oil and by massaging this area gently to keep the muscles firm and well nourished.

Often the early lines around the eyes and over the lids come from eyestrain. I do not mean that there may be something serious wrong with your eyes, but there may be some undue strain such as long exposure to the wind or to the bright sun. If you suspect that there is some more serious cause for the strain may need glasses for close work then consult a specialist. You such as reading or you may need scientific, corrective eye treatment. If the strain comes from the bright sun, then simple dark glasses to absorb the glare of sunlight on sidewalks or water will give you relief.

Cleanse the eyelids and the skin about the eyes at night when you remove the make-up of the day and wash the rest of your face. Wash the eyes themselves in a solution of boracic acid to soothe them and to remove any foreign particles that may have become lodged there during the day. Dry the eyes gently with tissues and massage the eyelids and the skin under the eyes and at the corners with a rich nourishing cream, vaseline or a specially prepared eye cream.

Massage underneath the eye from the nose out to the temple. Lift your finger and massage over the lid from the nose to the temple. At the outer corner of each eye, massage with ever-widening circles. Be careful not to get any cream or oil into the eyes as it is both painful and injurious. Cream or oil combined with the massage will encourage the growth of your eyelashes and brows.

Do not let your eyes become overtired, especially in the summer. If this is unavoidable, plan to sleep an extra hour in the morning and otherwise rest the eyes as much as possible. If they happen to smart from a day spent in the wind, from smoke or eyestrain, cover them with pads of cotton dipped in hot salt water, or hot diluted witch hazel. This will draw out the inflammation, increase the circulation and otherwise soothe both your tired eyes and your eyelids. Apply the pads as warm as you can bear them, and as soon as they cool, dip in the hot liquid again. Keep this up for fifteen minutes, then splash the eyes with cold water. This treatment is also an excellent one for eyes that are swollen and red from crying.

Follow these directions every single day and the skin around your eyes will remain soft—a fitting background for the sparkling jewels that are your youthful healthy eyes.

ANSWER TO QUERY

Dear Miss Hunt: I have hemmed my light, mousey-colored hair to make it more like a dark one. I do not know what to do with my pale lashes and brows. I have used black mascara on my friends' lids and say that I look silly. How can I change them?—E. M.

ANSWER: Your friends or your lashes? Oh, sorry. Remove any struggling hairs with the tweezers to give your eyebrows a nice line, and then darken them slightly with a dark brown hard eyebrow pencil that will not smudge. Use dark brown mascara on your lashes. The brown lash and brow color will not be nearly so conspicuous. Be careful in coloring your eyebrows to keep them light and natural looking, darkening them just enough to give a clear, definite line.

New York. So you're going on your vacation. Well, of course, you must have a suit. It might as well be linen, especially since the new linen refuse to be crushed by anything resembling rough treatment.

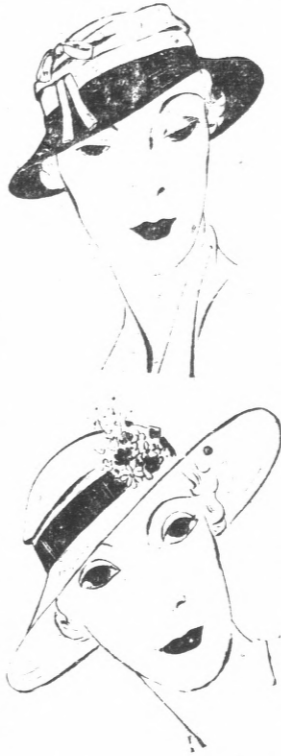

Chiffon dresses may be packed much more easily than crisp types and are ideal for cruises, vacations and week-ends. Also, they appeal to the mature woman or the matron who think that crumple is too youthful.

It's entirely too hot to even think about woollens, yet some women wear them even at 90 in the shade, especially when traveling, and there is nothing sadder than that come fall we will all be clamoring for novelty worsted again.

Swim Suit for Swimmers

There is a feeling that swim suits have been abused. They have been worn by the wrong people, with the result that an effort is being put forth to leave to swimmers the swim suit, and to put fat ladies and matrons in the sea, in something less revealing. Hence the dressmaker type of suit. Hence the diminutive, but tricky little skirts, sometimes wrap around, and separate so they may be flung aside before plunging into the sea, or taken off to serve as a shoulder cape should the sun prove too hot or the wind too chill.

Shorts and slacks remain definitely mod, either in white or purple blue. The Basque shirt also stays where. While one does see girls who look as though their bathing suits were made from bull dresses cut short, there are others who are more trim and shipshape.

The hat illustrated at top combines a white crepe satin draped crown, with a black brim of a semi-smooth straw.

The other model, of white paillasson, suggests the beret draped in the crown, and is trimmed with heavy beading and a cluster of bright flowers.

THE NEW COOK PLAYS HOSTESS

By JUDITH WILSON

WHEN you have learned the principles of cookery and have learned how to plan your meals and manage so well that you will not have everything to do at once, you are ready to play hostess. This is one of the joys of being able to cook. The first time, however, you should limit the list to four persons if you want to feel confident that everything will go smoothly.

Planning Ahead

Plan a menu of which, at least part, can be prepared early in the morning. If you select a melon cup or fruit cup as the first course, the melon or fruit can be cut in balls and put to chill in orange or other fruit juice and set in the ice-box to marinate until dinner time. Diced pineapple with mint also makes an excellent first course if pineapple is not elsewhere on the menu. Chop a sprig or two of mint and lay it in a warm place to dry out until you are ready to crumble it and sprinkle over the diced pineapple.

Chinese Sauce

Bake the pie in the first menu—or if you choose the second menu, buy a jar of the preserved Chinese fruits and chop them into fine bits. Let them chill in the syrup until you are ready to make the sundae. If you have a freezer or a mechanical refrigerator you may wish to make your own ice cream—if not the necessary amount can be purchased from your nearest delicatessen just before meal-time.

Lemon Meringue Pie

To make lemon pie put four cups of boiling water in the double-boiler and beat in six tablespoons of cornstarch that have been mixed to a paste in three-fourths cup cold water, and cook for two or three minutes, be sure that the mixture is smoothly blended then take from the fire and add the yolks of six eggs beaten with four cups of sugar. Add to this the juice of four lemons, the grated rind of one lemon and two tablespoons of butter. Beat the mixture thoroughly with the egg beater. Set the boiler back on the stove and cook, stirring constantly until the mixture is so thick that it will not run from an inverted saucer. Cool slightly and pour into a large previously baked pie shell. Cover with a meringue made from beating four egg whites until stiff, adding eight tablespoons powdered sugar and brown in a moderate oven until the meringue is firm and crusty. Chill the pie before serving.

You can prepare the ingredients for the salads and make the salad dressing and set them in the icebox until later in the afternoon when you arrange them on individual salad plates. The vegetables can be prepared in the first menu, the peas can be shelled, covered with a damp cloth and set in the icebox. The potatoes pared and put into cold water so they will not become discolored.

Pepper and Crab Meat Salad For pepper and crab meat salad, prepare a filling from three-fourths cup mayonnaise, two cups flaked crab meat, two teaspoons grated onion, one teaspoon salt, a dash of cayenne and one-half cup of diced celery. Cut a two inch slice from each of six green peppers, remove the seeds and ribs and place each one on a crisp lettuce. Fill the pepper shells with the crab mixture. Garnish with additional mayonnaise and a dash of paprika.

An easy and inexpensive way to polish copper, bronze and brass is in warm, sudsy water to which have been added several drops of ammonia.

Persons dieting to keep thin should not overlook eggs. Hard cooked eggs in a salad of green vegetables, without being fattening, are rich in vitamin, mineral and caloric value.

For a simple, nutritious and inexpensive dessert, try baked apples with brown sugar.

Do you know that vegetables that are started to cook in boiling water keep their color better?

To prevent a crust from forming on kneaded yeast bread dough, place it in a greased pan and cover exposed surface with melted butter.

Do you know that pickled beets served on a crisp lettuce leaf is a good garnish for hot meat sandwiches?

TRY TO KNOW THE CHILD MIND

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

IF WE showed half the patience in training children that a dog fancier shows in training dogs, there would be practically no behavior problems to discuss.

One thing every dog learns while he is very young is to know when his master is serious and when he wants to play. It takes time and patience to teach him to make this distinction. And as every master of such dog knows, it is well worth the effort.

Why can't we give a child the same chance to learn obedience as we give our pet? It certainly would simplify life for him. It would give him a chance to know just where he stands with us. More than this, it would help him to decide on a course of behavior in accord with our wishes. Life for him now could roll along smoothly and pleasantly.

Study Child Mind

The mistakes made in dealing with children come from not understanding the child mind. Two mistakes most common to parents are (1) to underestimate a child's ability; (2) to overestimate it. In each case the child is wronged. In the first, he is kept helpless by having matters attended to for him; in the second, he is made out to be dull or naughty when as a matter of fact he may be normal in every respect for a child of his age.

The memory span of childhood is short. It is well to keep this fact in mind. It will help build up an understanding that children require constant reminders from us to "stay" taught on particular points of behavior; that when the same mistake occurs again and again, it is proof merely that the child does not understand what is expected of him.

Be Consistent

A child likes to feel that he acts of his own volition. His ego demands it. At the same time he is aware that he can gain nothing by opposing us. This leaves him in a state of doubt until we help him to decide for himself. If we make a quiet, casual suggestion we help him out of his dilemma by opposing us. This leaves him in a state of doubt until we help him to decide for himself. If we make a quiet, casual suggestion we help him out of his dilemma by opposing us. This leaves him in a state of doubt until we help him to decide for himself.

There is no room in parenthood for emotionality. Parents should cultivate resourcefulness instead, and patience. Their job demands it.

Mrs. Sabin Dampened The Dry Blanket... A Fighting Secretary.

SLOWLY the various states of the Union are voting for repeal of prohibition. If the United States does go wet, those who favor such a change can credit Mrs. Charles H. Sabin with having aided materially in bringing about repeal. Mrs. Sabin and her Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform helped hard the dry blanket that happened the former dry sent men throughout the country.

Imbued with a restless energy, poised with social and political experience, as feminine a leader as ever entered the masculine arena of public life, Mrs. Sabin is the woman who domesticated anti-prohibition sentiment. It was she who made the wet label not only smart but respectable and respected. Less than five years ago this woman leader of the G. O. P. announced her intention of organizing her sex against prohibition and subsequently was hailed by the wets, as the Joan of Arc of their cause.

When Mrs. Sabin resigned from the Republican National Committee where she had functioned for six years as the first woman member from New York State, to devote her time and energies to the anti-prohibition cause, nobody could see any farther ahead than possible light wines and beers in some distant future. Nobody dreamed that the 1932 election would present the women opponents of prohibition as a major problem for practical politicians. Today there are more than one million members enrolled in the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Many women who become public figures sometimes develop platform personalities which gradually overgrow their real selves. They have a tendency to carry their causes off-stage with them and their friends always have the feeling of sitting in an audience. Such is not the case with Mrs. Sabin. When she shuts her office door she leaves prohibition reform behind her.

Mrs. Sabin was born in Chicago, forty-five years ago. She is the granddaughter of J. Sterling Morton, Secretary of Agriculture in President Cleveland's Cabinet, and the daughter of Paul Morton, Secretary of the Navy in President Roosevelt's Cabinet. Therefore, she grew up in a political atmosphere. She always found Senate debates more interesting than the theater and went to her first Republican convention in her teens and has been to every one since.

As a society woman and the wife of a foremost American banker, she enjoys all sports, an occasional bridge game, the theater and music. She even has taken a hand at interior decorating, having made several important suites at the new and luxurious Waldorf-Astoria hotel most ornate.

THERE'S a real fighter behind the new deal in agriculture. That fighter is the tall Westerner, Henry Agard Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture. He is the son of Henry C. Wallace, who served as Secretary of Agriculture under President Harding, and grandson of "Uncle Henry" Wallace, member of Theodore Roosevelt's Country Life Commission, and the idol of prairie men.

Two weeks after he had taken office, Mr. Wallace was in the thick of a fight for the administration's farm relief program. Advance reports that its provisions would confer "dictatorial powers" on the Secretary of Agriculture sent representatives of the packers, millers, cotton spinners and exchange dealers hurrying to Washington.

The prices received by the farmer for his products were to be brought in line with the prices he was required to pay for the industrial commodities he must buy. In return growers were to reduce their production in a final effort to eliminate the recurring annual surpluses which had been beating down farm prices. Call it price-fixing or something else, the situation required drastic action.

Pressure was brought to bear in the Senate and in the midst of all this activity Mr. Wallace declared to the country at large, "This bill attempts a major social experiment. It looks towards a balanced social state."

In matters concerning agriculture, Secretary Wallace has proved himself a prophet during the last fifteen years. When the World War ended he had already investigated its probable after-effects and might be deduced from the sequence of past wars. He alleged and rightfully, that the World War showed no aspects that would make the expectancy of the reconstruction period any different from that of the wars of a hundred years before. He persistently wrote editorials in his father's paper, Wallace's Farmer, which read: "Now is a good time to pay off your debts."

GIRL GRADUATES HAVE A TOUGH PROBLEM AHEAD

By MARIAN MAYES MARTIN

AFTER your diploma, what? That is the question that is without answer in many a household just now. It is not like it was in the olden days.

There is not a job waiting for every girl who has achieved the distinction of being able to write B.A. after her name. It looks simple, but the bank doesn't hand it a thing. Besides which, many right-minded spirited grads feel that they are starting life in debt to their parents for the sum their college education cost, a rather considerable amount on the debit side of the ledger. It is not going to make it any more comfortable for you to realize that father, or maybe it's mother, needs that money badly.

MRS. MARTIN

NATURALLY when one is at college it is not exactly like being shut up in a nunnery. One does know something of what is going on in the outside world, but it all seems very unimportant. "What is mere money?" Your young intellectuals ask each other. During the college years it is made to seem a very trivial thing, hardly worth any serious thought at all. One is encouraged in the idea, that those who spend their time and precious energy on such an unworthy subject are quite beneath one's notice.

THINGS have to be paid for, of course, but they usually are. That's the attitude of mind in which one comes from the campus to find instead of long rows of green and beautiful trees, long rows of shops that do not need any one to help them, and long lines of houses heavily mortgaged, not to mention bread lines.

SOMETHING of the same condition always faces your starchy, red, diploma conscious student, who's head has been sublimely tucked away in the clouds for four years. It is just a bit worse this year, that's all. The awakening is more abrupt, and accompanied by an unpleasant jarring of the senses.

IT IS always a dramatic moment when one is confronted with the need of money for the first time, not for candy or even text books, but for bread and butter and rent, and money enough to have one's heels straightened so that the world may not suspect how down at the heel we really are.

MOST girls come out of college with some sort of idea, and usually a very definite one, of what they plan to do. Try to do it, that's all, and remember the little tendency of those best laid plans for going haywire.

THE usual procedure, in a family where money could be mustered together for the purposes, was for the young hopeful of either sex to be given a year abroad before settling down, or if not that, at least a short trip to Paris and London and the cathedral towns of both England and France. The big ships are making it possible to see the world at a very low figure, but most of us have neither the time nor the desire, even if we had the money, to spend it this way. The approved 1933 method is, from college to a job in a non-stop flight. No one thinks of wasting any pity on the girl who accomplishes it in the shortest possible time.

IT MAY seem as though measuring ribbon behind a counter, or selling hats or whatever it is, the girl finally is permitted to do, does not require a thorough grounding in Latin or Greek, but that's the way the world is. One must not ask too many questions about the why or the whereof, but just pinch that job before someone else gets it, then go on from there making what you can out of a system that operates as ours seems to be doing.

YOU are bound to find out that most of the really important things for you to know were omitted from your college course. After the first difficult readjustment, it is altogether likely that you are going to buckle down to this higher education on which you have now embarked.

To Keep Plants Watered

If you are off for a visit or closing the house for a time and there is no one to water your plants, try this hint: Place in a galvanized tub as many bricks as there are flower pots, and place a pot upon each. The bricks will absorb the water and keep the plants in good condition for some time.

City Fathers Ban Picnics In Cemeteries

ODEN, Utah, July 5.—UP—There will be no more picnicking or demonstrations in the Oden City cemetery if new laws adopted by the city commission are kept.

All picnics, demonstrations or assemblies, excepting for funeral or memorial services, have been banned. Other laws prohibited burial of more than one body in a single grave, excepting a mother and her infant child, a twin; burials on New Year's Day, Independence Day, Pioneer Day, Christmas, Labor Day and Thanksgiving; construction of a monument costing more than $25 until after the lot is paid for; payment of a gratuity fee to cemetery employees.

Lamson Probe to Take Place During Week

SAN JOSE, July 5.—The long-delayed inquest on the death of Allen Lamson in her Stanford campus home Memorial day, may be held here this week, and David Lamson, the husband held for her murder, may at last be present.

This was indicated today, as Coroner Snos Williams hinted that a resumption from the district attorney's office had been lifted. No definite date has been set.

While Lamson's presence can be forced, he cannot be made to testify, and it is believed doubtful his attorneys will permit any testimony with his trial for murder in the Superior Court set for August 21.

At the case of almost five weeks in custody, Lamson said yesterday he is confident that apparent conflicting statements he made in the first few hours after his wife's death, can be explained, and that he can tell a story which will acquit him.

State Policeman Killed by Youth

GRANT'S PASS, Ore., July 5.—Plans for a military funeral for State Patrolman Barrett Milo Hancock were planned today, and John Alvin Barrier, 17, Huntington Beach, Calif., and Harry Adolph Bowles, 21, Los Angeles, awaited the firing of first degree murder charges against them for the fatal shooting of Hancock Saturday on the Sexton Mountain highway.

Barrier confessed he fired the shots that brought death to the officer when he sought to question them regarding the stolen Los Angeles car in which they were riding. State police said.

Officers said the two youths did not seem disturbed over the killing. Barrier claimed he fired on Hancock because he feared arrest for car theft.

TRIO OF NEW COUNCILMEN ARE SEATED AT MEETING

It will not be necessary to increase the tax rate."

Meyer then introduced Johnson as the new mayor, and congratulated him on his selection.

"I know the members of this body will co-operate with you," said Meyer, "and sincerely hope the city will go forward to better times."

Handed Gavel—Johnson was then handed the gavel, and was greeted with rounds of applause.

"I believe the management of a city is the management of big business, and if you operate your own business successfully, you should apply the same methods to the business of the municipality."

The three new members of the council, Otto R. Ludwig, Frank E. Tiller and Samuel S. Ripley had taken their seats as members of the council, and Mayor Johnson, then called on them for a few words.

Ripley Speaks—Samuel S. Ripley—"I think anyone who has been elected to a position of this character should appreciate it, and I will do everything in my power to aid in the upbuilding of the city."

Tiller Speaks—Frank E. Tiller—"I am proud and happy to know that I appreciate the confidence the voters have placed in me."

"I will give my best efforts to the welfare of the city, and assure you that in all matters that come before this body, I will always be fair."

Ludwig Home Again—Otto R. Ludwig—"In the past I served eight years as a member of this body, and to be here tonight feels just like getting home again. The people voted for me on my past record. During my previous term, I did my level best, did what I thought was right and just, and I now am promising to do the same thing."

"You hear much about a 'new deal' and we all hope to soon be out of this depression, but I am wondering if the general public is expecting more out of the local government than can be given."

"During our sessions, there may be arguments, and that is as it should be, but let us thresh matters out, and after they are determined, let us be friends. We should not let personalities enter into our discussions."

All of the new members of the council were given much applause.

Gambling Club In Hollywood Raided

HOLLYWOOD, July 5.—UP—Fourteen men were under arrest on gambling charges today as result of a police raid which disturbed a number of film personages at the gaming tables in the exclusive Palomar Pacific club last night.

In the first raid directed by Captain Ralph Sears, the vice squad created a mild panic among patrons by battering down a heavy front door to gain admittance.

Officers said a great many film folk were in the crowd of customers, who were released.

Those arrested included dealers, croupiers and members of the club staff, officers said.

WOMAN SHOT IN MOUNTAIN DEATH PLOT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—A mysterious prowler was sought today as Calaveras county authorities attempted to solve the murder of Mrs. Karloz Fuher, 16, shot to death as she slept beside her husband in a prospector's camp near here.

Questioned by Sheriff Joe Zwinge, the husband said he was awakened by a gunshot at about 2 a. m. yesterday.

He struck a light, he said, and found his wife dying from a bullet wound. He advanced the theory that she was shot by a prowler whom she surprised in the act of trying to enter the tent.

Stepson Hears Shot—Partial corroboration of this theory came from Eddie Fuher, 14 year old stepson of the dead woman. He said he was sleeping a few yards from the tent, awakened at the sound of the shot and saw a man wearing a light colored cap fleeing from the camp.

Clara Fuher, 15 year old stepdaughter, said she also was aroused by the shot, ran to the tent and found Mrs. Fuher dying.

Zwinge said he had been unable to find the weapon with which Mrs. Fuher was slain and had found a rifle and shotgun wrapped in burlap and left in a parking case. Both weapons were taken for examination.

Prospectors Interviewed—Prospectors camped on a nearby cañon were questioned but could throw no light on the tragedy. They said they had not even heard the shot.

The Fuher family came here last April from Bartow. The slain woman was Fuher's third wife. The children and the couple seldom quarreled.

Fuher had been prospecting on the Killingswood ranch several miles distant while his wife and children worked along the river. He recently claimed discovery of a thin gold pocket.

Zwinge said the bullet wound which caused the death was an unusual one and he would ask autopsy surgeons for a detailed report.

County Irrigation District May Avoid Interest Default

Brentwood, July 5.—Despite conditions which were expected to present a serious problem, the Contra Costa County Irrigation District had been saved from eventuality by technical default today with delinquencies running less than 25 per cent.

This was disclosed following a session of the board of directors to further relief new taxation.

Enough money is on hand to meet interest payments, according to Charles B. Weeks and $2000 needed for bond redemption has been transferred from the interest to the principal fund for the purpose.

The fact that a late season has delayed returns on apricots, the principal crops of land owners in the district, was expected to cause a delinquency in excess of 50 per cent.

Additional payments are anticipated when fruit receipts become available.

Sciots to Hold Dinner Meeting

The Richmond group of Sciots will hold their monthly 6:30 dinner and business meeting tomorrow evening at Richmond club house.

Frederic LaMone is in charge of dinner arrangements.

E. J. LaMone, together, will preside over the business session. There will be discussion of the Sciots' visit to Alameda county, O. R. S. on July 21. The Sciots will be absent on that evening.

On July 27, there will be a large picnic and picnic for members and friends. Allen Candy is in charge of arrangements.

Antioch Man Held On Driving Charge

MARTINEZ, July 5.—Arrested near Brentwood, W. T. Williams, 41, of 516 Seventh street, Antioch, was booked at the county jail on a reckless driving charge.

The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Gomez, Jr. and Constable Charles Barkley of Brentwood.

ARCHITECT STRICKEN

HELENA, Mont., July 5.—G. H. Carsley, architect for many important public and private buildings in Montana, died last night.

NAVY TO ASK BIG SUM FOR MODERNIZING

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Secretary Swanson said today the navy will ask $77,000,000 of public works funds for battleship modernization which will give the United States a fleet of "battleships equal to those of any navy."

The program outlined would include modernization of the California, West Virginia, Maryland, Colorado and Tennessee and increase gun elevation for the New York and Texas.

Now under modernization are the New Mexico, the Mississippi and the Idaho.

Battleships which have been modernized includes the Arkansas, New York, Texas, Oklahoma, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Arizona.

Swanson explained that when the New York and Texas were modernized their guns were not elevated because of a belief in some quarters such elevations would conflict with the Washington naval treaty.

"If we get this money, 85 per cent will go to labor," the secretary said.

He pointed out modernization would include new machinery, and increased deck protection, and said three of the battleships need new boilers.

Swanson said the Navy also is seeking around $27,000,000 for shore station construction.

Canneries Set Minimum Wage

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—UP—Canneries of California, Oregon and Washington will pay a minimum of 27½ cents an hour to women workers, it was agreed here today at a conference between heads of plants and labor commissioners of the three states.

My reason for liking Luckies is strictly personal

After all—since I smoke quite a number of cigarettes each day—don't you think it's just as well that I lean in the right direction? Perhaps you'd call my reason for liking "Toasting" the assurance of purity it gives me—for Luckies come in rather close personal contact with me, you know. Just knowing that each puff of Lucky smoke I draw in is pure—it makes the pleasure of fragrant roasted tobacco that much greater. Certainly, purity never hurt anyone! And besides—"Luckies Please!"
